GSW School of Business gives students edge on CPA exam

AMERICUS—Recently, the Georgia Southwestern State University (GSW) School of Business Administration entered into an academic site license partnership with Gleim Publications, Inc. Gleim develops and distributes a variety of study and reference materials to help students learn and understand Accounting.

“This partnership will provide our students the opportunity to prepare themselves for the Certified Public Accountant (CPA) exam while attending Georgia Southwestern State University,” said John Kooti, Ph.D., dean of the School of Business. “It is all about giving our students the service they deserve while attending GSW and after they graduate. It is up to them to take advantage of the opportunities and services provided.”

The partnership will allow full-time students from the GSW School of Business to take advantage of CPA review booklets and audio review CD’s in the School of Business computer labs.

Affiliation with Gleim also provides discounts for additional software and materials. Students can purchase Gleim’s Student Site Set with Simulations for $355, nearly half of the list price. This includes books, a prep CD-Rom and an Online Simulation Wizard for all four sections of the CPA exam.

Students, nationwide, who have used Gleim’s most comprehensive exam review packet, the Complete System with CPA Online, have a 70% pass rate on the CPA exam.

In addition to Georgia Southwestern, Gleim is connected with many institutions throughout the U.S. including the University of Georgia, Georgia State, the University of Florida, Purdue University, Rutgers University and Penn State University.
