Student News

Former GSW student applies for grant at the University of Leeds

A student from our institution is currently applying for a grant at the University of Leeds. The student, who is currently in their final year of undergraduate studies, has been selected to present their research at a conference in Leeds. This is a significant opportunity for them to network with other students and researchers in their field.

Scientists at Savannah participate in Regional Science Fair

A group of scientists from our institution have participated in the Regional Science Fair. The fair is a great opportunity for students and scientists to showcase their research and innovation. It is also a great opportunity for the public to learn about the latest developments in science.

National Chemistry Week

Students and faculty at GSW recently celebrated National Chemistry Week. The celebration included experiments for everyone to try and learn about chemical science. The fun and learning that they can have with chemistry was a hit.

Faculty News

Jenny Berggren joins Department of History and Political Science

Jenny Berggren has joined our Department of History and Political Science. Jenny has been studying both Arabic language and culture at universities in the United Kingdom. She has also been studying the politics of President Jimmy Carter, with a focus on his domestic policies. Jenny will bring her expertise to our department and will be involved in the editing of the Journal of Third World Studies.

GSSW awarded PRISM grant

GSSW has received a $23,000 grant from the University System of Georgia to fund a 2-day institute for faculty members who teach in the STEM fields: Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics. This grant will help faculty members to develop new strategies to teach STEM to students in the 21st Century. The institute will be held on November 12, 13, 14.

South Park and Cigarettes

South Park is a popular animated series that has been on the air since 1997. The show is known for its dark humor and social commentary. In the latest episode, the students are SOLICITED to create a poster to promote the dangers of smoking. The poster is a reexamination of the role of Charity in 1882 New Orleans, the city where the series is set. The episode is a great example of how South Park blends humor and social commentary.

Professor wins NEHAC Scavenger Hunt

A professor from our institution has won the NEHAC Scavenger Hunt. The professor, who is interested in studying the religion and politics of President Jimmy Carter, was the winner of the competition. The competition was held in conjunction with the National Endowment for the Humanities College of Arts and Sciences.

The College of Arts and Sciences is very proud of our faculty and students for their achievements. We encourage everyone to continue to support and celebrate their success.